Julie Hay Elected New ITAA President

The winner of the 1988 ITAA election for President-Elect is Julie Hay of England. Julie will take office in January 1990 after completing her current term as President of the European Association for Transactional Analysis. The following is Julie's message to the ITAA membership.

I am delighted and honored to have been chosen as the next President of the ITAA. I see it as a significant step in the evolution of the worldwide TA community that I have been elected as I come to the end of my term as President of the European Association for Transactional Analysis (EATA). To me, this confirms the commitment of the ITAA membership to the internationalism that was first demonstrated when Vince Gilpin was elected. I am pleased to be the one to follow in his footsteps.

During my year as President-Elect, I know that I have a lot to learn. I have been impressed by all the hard work that has been going on. I now need to become familiar with the new structure of the ITAA and with the people who make it work. I expect to find much to appreciate in the energy that so many have already contributed. As I have not previously been a member of any ITAA committees, I hope to offer the benefit of a fresh perspective when this is needed. My aim will be to extend and consolidate the ideas and processes that have been introduced over the last few years.

My personal vision for the ITAA is one where we use our OKness and our skills to create an organization where differences as well as unity are valued.

Two themes are expecially important to me: professionalism and internationalism. My personal vision for the ITAA is one where we use our OKness and our skills to create an organization where differences as well as unity are valued. I want us to be an organization where high professional standards are maintained without any exclusion of members who do not seek a professional role.

As an "organizational" TA person, I respect the strong clinical basis that has formed the history of the ITAA. I see its value in encouraging us to continue developing high standards of training and professional practice. I want us to actively seek more ways for other applications of TA to gain from this thoroughness and to contribute in return their own specialized theories and practices. We need also to devise creative options for helping those who find it difficult at present to meet our training requirements. And we need space for those who benefit from TA and choose different ways to be involved.

As an international association, we have a responsibility to work in ways that invite others to join us. I am particularly keen that we find viable options for using the TAlent — the special "currency" that will provide us with a formula for converting fees so that they reflect the differing costs and incomes of members around the world. I am also keen to support work on translations as I am conscious that TA is denied to many until we can make contact with them in their own languages.

Whatever your level of membership in ITAA, I invite you to send me your ideas and opinions. I hope we can work together to make opportunities for us all to share our special aptitudes and our energies for the advancement of TA around the world. □

President-Elect Julie Hay

A New Year's Resolution

by Vince Gilpin, ITAA President

As we enter 1989, we face together the challenge of another year. It is common practice to make New Year's resolutions, and I will take the liberty of making membership my theme for 1989. Increased membership would be great, but that is not my main focus. Membership renewal and participation and keeping the Association relevant to the members is my focus. To do this, I wish to hear from the membership their ideas, wishes, and discontents as well as their willingness to be part of the solutions.

The ITAA has accomplished another year, and we enter 1989 with vigor and anticipation. In 1988 we began the process of implementing the reorganization that was the end result of the Long Range Planning Committee of the previous five years. The major emphasis of this process has been threefold:

1. The internationalization of the organization, primarily through the affiliation process.

It is common practice to make New Year's resolutions, and I will take the liberty of making membership my theme for 1989.

2. The modification of the governance structure through changes in the bylaws to permit the affiliations and other structural changes such as a reduction in the size of the Board of Trustees.

3. The creation of three functional divisions of the organization: Operations, Research and Innovation, and Development.

We have found implementation somewhat hampered by insufficient volunteer people power, and we hope this will be different in 1989.

At the same time, the affiliation process is being put into place, and we have completed negotiations with our first affiliate — the European Association for Transactional Analysis (EATA). I am please to welcome EATA into the closer relationship we have both sought and which I am convinced will work to our mutual benefit. Thanks to Lucy Freedman for piloting that affiliation contract through.

There are other associations preparing to apply for affiliate status, and we hope to complete these application processes in 1989.

The revised bylaws were passed by a vote of the membership last year, and the three Divisions were established. Acting Vice-Presidents were appointed to manage them until VPs could be elected in 1989. The appointees are Sheryn Scott, Research and Innovation; Jim McKenna, Development; and Bill Cornell (who is also currently ITAA Vice-President), Operations.

A significant development this last year was the creation of an effective mechanism for creating translations. This is very timely considering our affiliation with people who speak many different languages. Already we have produced in Spanish and in French the ITAA Information Brochure, the ITAA Ethics Statement, and the Training Manual of the Training and Certification Council for Transactional Analysis. Special congratulations to Jenni Hine and Nelly Micholt for making this happen.

The information brochures on the Global TA Action Project have been circulated, and reports of planned events are coming in. The Project offers TA people worldwide an opportunity to act in concert with one another to demonstrate the applications of TA and, at the same time, to address global concerns at the local level. There is still time to plan an event for March 21, 1989, and further information is available from Flo Olivier at 11 Keith Rd., West Vancouver, B.C., Canada V7T lM6.

I am pleased to congratulate Julie Hay, our new President-Elect. I welcome her to this primary leadership position and look forward to working closely with her this year and during her term as President. □

EDITOR'S COLUMN

by William Krieger

This One's For You

When I first agreed to take on the job of Editor of The Script, I had visions of making The Script a true community newspaper as opposed to simply an organizational newsletter with some articles thrown in to keep the readers' interest. I thought it would be a relatively easy task because as Editor I would have total control and responsibility for all aspects of The Script. At least I thought it would be that way. I hadn't realized how complex an organization the ITAA is, and how much the staff does to make the volunteer leader look good....

I don't know when my first contact with her was, but it probably was a phone call during the transition period before I took over the Editor's reins. I do remember my first letter to her: "As Editor of The Script you are hereby directed...." I suppose I could get the full quote from my files, but I'm too embarrassed. I was frustrated and angry and felt I'd been handed a job to do without the authority to do it.

She had been around a lot longer than me, doing the day in and day out tasks, sometimes with an active editor, sometimes without. She had seen editors come and go. Some, maybe even many, had great ideas when they started and then backed off leaving her to pick up the pieces. I was probably the least known person to ever be appointed Editor. She was trying to protect The Script, and yes, looking back, she was trying to protect me also.

She had been living with and taking care of The Script for a long time. I was another manager coming in and wanting to move the furniture around. She had been through it before. A new manager coming around with new ideas and then leaving her to do the moving. I think she was pleased when I stepped in and started moving the furniture with her.

I don't know exactly when it happened. Somewhere along the way we became a team, and if love means mutual respect and caring and support and working toward a common goal, then love is part of our teamwork.

I've learned much from my association, no, my relationship, with her. I've learned to see the bigger picture, how to write to get my ideas across rather than simply to vent my feelings, and most importantly, how to exercise power without exercising power.

...And so I start another year as Editor. I originally accepted a one-and-a-half year assignment. I then agreed to stay "just one more year." And now I've accepted the job for "only one more year." I don't know how many one more years there will be, but I do know this, Robin Fryer, Publications Manager of the ITAA, my partner in editing The Script, my friend, this one's for you!

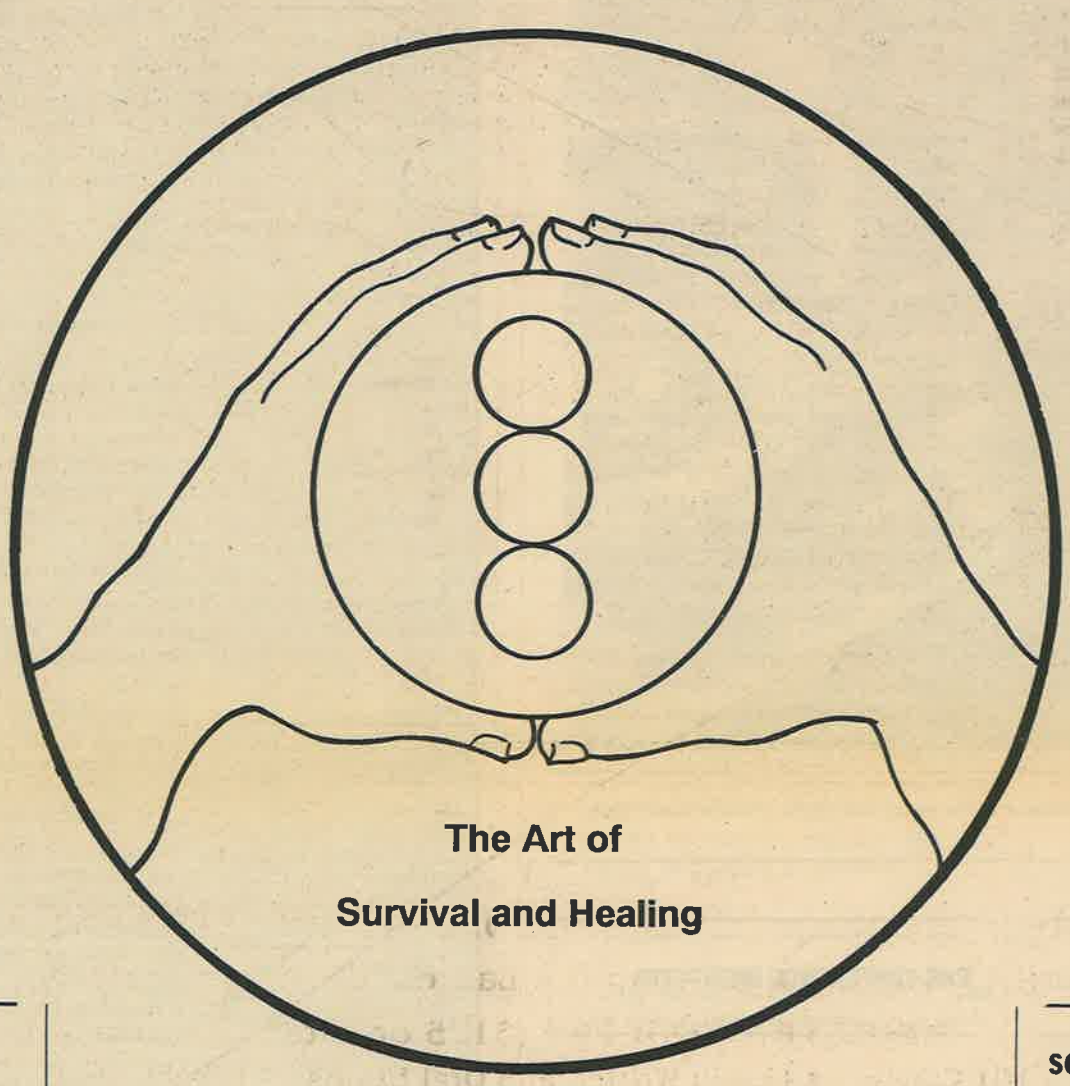
27th Annual Summer Conference

August 2-6, 1989
Oakland, California, USA



AN INVITATION FROM THE PROGRAM CHAIR

The 27th Annual Summer Conference will soon be upon us, when colleagues and friends from around the world will meet to focus on "The Art of Survival and Healing."

Survival is the ability to live after or in spite of. It is the right and the primary task of every organism, whether it be a newborn infant or a group such as a family, an organization, or an institution.

Healing is also necessary. The wounds and scars incurred in the process of surviving need attention. This process allows us to stretch beyond survival and to reach for satisfaction and fulfillment.

There will be many opportunities to celebrate together our survival, our healing, and the satisfaction and fulfillment we find in our work and in our friendships. The Program Committee and I invite you to join us this summer. I hope to see you in Oakland.

A RETURN TO OAKLAND

The San Francisco Bay Area is the birthplace of transactional analysis and the center of its early growth. In 1989 the International Transactional Analysis Association will follow its long-standing tradition of returning to the Bay Area every three years by hosting the 27th Annual ITAA International Summer Conference in Oakland.

Cosmopolitan Oakland has everything to make your stay fun and relaxing, including 19 miles of fascinating waterfront, with great seafood restaurants, sailing, shopping, wonderful strolling, an authentic Chinatown, and unique restaurants of every kind. The internationally acclaimed Oakland Museum and gardens, the Art Deco Paramount Theater, Lake Merritt, Jack London Village, the Oakland Museum, and much more, await you.

HOTEL

We will be returning to the The Hyatt Hotel at Oakland International Airport, site of our 1983 Summer Conference. This low-key two-story complex is perfect for connections: It offers beautiful gardens, swimming in a heated Olympic-sized pool, sunbathing, and moderate costs. The Hyatt address is 455 Hegenberger Road, Oakland, California 94621, 415-562-6100, Telex 335374. Five minutes from the Oakland International Airport and BART public transportation, with free shuttle to both, there is easy access to both Oakland and San Francisco attractions. Sleeping room costs will be $70 single or $80 double. Children under 18 are free in their parents' room using existing beds.

Alternate Accommodations are available within a .7 mile walking radius of the Hyatt, including three hotels ranging in price from $40 to $60 per night.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

A full schedule of challenging and informative speakers will be presented, including both well-known ITAA advanced members and top non-TA speakers in order to facilitate cross-fertilization of disciplines. ROBERT COLES AS KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Robert Coles, MD, will educate and challenge us as the Keynote Speaker for the 27th Annual Summer Conference. Coles, long associated with Harvard University as a clinician and Professor in the Health Services Department, is world-renowned for his work with people struggling with life in nonclinical situations, a topic with broad implications for the work of our members and other conference participants. Dr. Coles won the Pulitzer Prize for his series, Children of Crisis; in addition, he has written over 20 books.

TA SUPPORT GROUPS

Our unique TA Support Groups will again be offered on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday mornings. Each group of 10-15 participants remains together for the three days, although the leader changes daily in order to provide a variety of experiences. Participants often say that these groups bring a special cohesiveness and personally rewarding dimension to their experience of the conference. Plan to join one.

PRE-CONFERENCE INSTITUTES

Five Pre-Conference Institutes are available (at extra charge): two with highly acclaimed ITAA members and two with non-TA members will be held on Monday and Tuesday, July 31 and August 1. In addition, keynote speaker Robert Coles will lead a high-powered half-day institute on Wednesday, August 2.

COST

Registration material will be printed and mailed in March. You may preregister using the form in this Script. Fees include all workshops, parties, closing brunch, and administrative costs. There will be additional charges for pre-conference institutes, tours, and some social events. A limited number of registration fee scholarships are available to those in need through the Scholarship Committee of the Program Committee. We regret that we do not have scholarships available for travel or room, or board.

GLOBAL TA ACTION PROJECT

The issue of survival is relevant not only on personal and organizational levels, but also in a global sense. We will hear reports of members and others who participated in the Global TA Action Project, which was initiated at the San Diego Winter Congress in January 1988. On March 21, 1989, every TA person in the world is encouraged to conduct or participate in an activity that demonstrates the application of TA principles to raising global consciousness about such issues as human rights, holistic health, spiritual development, and ecological concerns. At the Oakland Conference, four theme workshops and the Closing Panel will focus on this Global TA Action exercize in international cooperation.

Fabulous Social Program Planned for 1989 Summer Conference

Local Host Carla Haimowitz has assembled an energetic Committee dedicated to making sure all participants enjoy their stay in the Bay Area! The exciting activities planned include:

Professional Visits and Tours: For those arriving early at the Oakland Conference, we have arranged a series of professional visits to local resources. Professional visits will be complemented by city tours of Oakland and San Francisco. The following are the tentative visits planned. (Subject to confirmation, schedule or locations may change.)

Monday, 7/3l, 9:00am-5:30 pm
San Francisco Visits

Begin by visiting the Shanti Project, a nonprofit agency offering support services to Persons with Aids and their friends and families. Shanti is internationally renowned as a model project in the field. Next visit the AIDS Foundation, a nonprofit resource and referral organization on AIDS and an excellent source of information on financial, medical, and emotional support services in the Bay Area.

After the morning visits, the bus will drop us off for lunch-on-your-own on Union Street, a quaint district with interesting shopping. The afternoon will be spent in a 3-hour deluxe city tour, including many of the sights of San Francisco (lunch and small admission fee to Japanese Tea Garden not included). Advanced registration required: $30 per person.

Tuesday, 8/l, 9:00am-5:30 pm
San Francisco Visits

On Day Two of our professional tours, we will visit the Department of Social Services and meet the Director of the Homeless Project for a presentation on problems and strategies in dealing with the homeless population in San Francisco. We will drive through the Tenderloin, pointing out hotels used by the City as temporary housing, and through the Civic Center, where many of the homeless reside. Later we will visit the Sanctuary, the city's largest nonprofit shelter for the homeless.

Lunch on your own or at Green's, a famous gourmet vegetarian restaurant overlooking San Francisco Bay, and then spend the afternoon visiting Alcatraz Island. After a 15-minute sightseeing ferry ride to Alcatraz, watch a slide presentation about the history of the Island and wander about at your leisure visiting the cell block and prison yard. Walking shoes and warm clothing are advised. Audio taped tours of the cell block are available for a small additional fee. Advanced registration required: $30 per person.

Wednesday, 8/2,. 9:00am-l:00 pm
Oakland Professional Visits

The East Bay Mental Health Tour begins in the heart of Oakland's Chinatown, where therapists speak 8 different languages in order to accommodate thousands of Asian immigrants to Oakland: Vietmanese, Korean, Cambodian, Laotian, Thai, Chinese, and Japanese. It continues with a visit to the Pacific Center for Human Growth, an outpatient counseling center that specializes in the needs of homosexual, bisexual, and transsexual men and women. Following that we will stop by ThunderRoad, a modern residential facility for 30-40 teenage addicts and alcoholics with an innovative, confrontive treatment program modeled after the Synanon approach. Finally, we will visits Birthways, an information service, telephone referral facility, and provider of groups for new and expectant mothers and fathers, multiple birth families, and those with other parenting needs. Advanced registration required: $12 per person.

Saturday, 8/6, l-5 pm
Carla's Custom Oakland Berkeley Tour

Our local host, Carla Haimowitz, has designed a very personal visit to a few of her favorite places: Jewel Lake, the Little Farm, the Steam Train, and the antique Merry Go Round in Tilden Park; the University of California at Berkeley; wild and crazy Telegraph Avenue; and the fabulous Oakland Museum. Advanced registration required: $12 per person.

Sunday, 8/7 , 9-6 pm
Wine Country Tour

We have reserved our own bus for a special ITAA group on the standard Greyline tour to the world-famous California Wine Country. In Napa we will visit either the Charles Krug or the Inglenook winery. In Sonoma we will visit either Mount St. John or Sebastiani. There will be lectures, wine tastings, and a chance for shopping. Wine tasters must be at least 21 years of age. Advanced registration required: $40 per person (minimum 20 persons).

Play Room: To fit our theme of "The Art of Survival and Healing," the traditional Connector Room has been redefined as the Play Room. The Play Room is a harbor and shelter from the conference, a place to meet people, get a snack or a massage, pick up messages or literature, heal if you've had a bad experience. A full and exciting program of informal discussions and activities is scheduled for the week.

San Francisco Night: On Saturday, August 5th, ITAA Conference participants will be transported by bus to enjoy the pleasures of the City. Start with cocktails from 7-9pm at the home of ITAA Past-President Jack Dusay, who is opening his beautiful Victorian mansion to Conference attendees. Then dine with friends and explore the North Beach area of San Francisco on your own, meeting your bus transportation back to the Oakland Hyatt at a scheduled pick-up point. Or, attend the theater extravaganza, Beach Blanket Babylon, with reserved tickets (extra charge).

Beach Blanket Babylon: Opened on June 7, 1974, BEACH BLANKET BABYLON has now surpassed the record set by the Ziegfeld Follies as the longest-running musical revue in history.

This production is unique not only because of its delightful parodies and musical madness, but also because of the innovative costumes and hats designed by Steve Silver. The headdresses range from a simple 2-foot feathered swan, to a 9.5-foot high mechanical Christmas tree, to the piece de resistance — a 25-foot wide, 33-foot high San Francisco skyline hat.

BBB is truly a San Francisco treat which will appeal to all ages. A limited number of tickets have been reserved in a block for the late show (l0:30 pm-Midnight). The performances are cabaret seating, with drinks served. Reserve early: $23 per person (under 2l not admitted).

International Connections Program: All conference participants are invited to sign up to be matched with a colleague or "buddy." This program is especially designed to match U.S.A "host" participants with international colleagues.

Children: Although the ITAA Conference will not offer a childcare program (because of low participation in recent years), we will assist participants in connecting with other parents in need and/or with local sitters. The Playroom and tours are available for kids of all ages, but parents must provide all necessary supervision and care. Teens 15 and older may enjoy volunteering as conference assistants.

ABOUT THE ITAA

The ITAA is an international professional organization consisting of 5,000 psychiatrists, psychologists, therapists, social workers, counselors, nurses, mental health practitioners, educators, managers, and organizational consultants from 60 countries.

Transactional Analysis (TA) is a complex theory of human personality and social behavior and a comprehensive system of psychotherapy originated by Eric Berne, MD, (1910-1970) in the late 1950s. TA is also a method of studying transactions (communication) between people, identifying where and how any breakdowns are occurring in that communication, and demonstrating ways to establish the most effective communication.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND THE CONFERENCE

One of the attractive features of TA is that it is applicable to diverse populations and situations. TA is a valuable skill for anyone who frequently has to deal with people under sometimes stressful situations: doctors, therapists, counselors, priests, nurses, social workers, prison officers, managers, organizational consultants, military personnel, rehabilitation officers, secretarial staff, and many others. TA is useful in all settings which require "people skills," such as teaching, hotel service, public relations, school administration, personnel, and training of all kinds. TA is invaluable to upper and middle management in organizations ranging from airlines to universities to hospitals to business organizations. It is also an excellent model for personal growth.

IN QUEST OF THE MYTHICAL MATE

A Developmental Approach to Diagnosis and Treatment in Couples Therapy

By Ellyn Bader, Ph.D., & Peter T. Pearson, Ph.D.

Founders & Directors, The Couples Institute, Menlo Park, California

"This is an excellent book, full of fresh ideas for therapists."

—Emily B. Visher, Ph.D. & John S. Visher, M.D.

In this highly innovative volume on the treatment of couples in therapy, the authors present a clear and exciting conceptual framework for understanding the evolution of the couple's relationship as a dynamic unit. Their starting point is the question, "What do we do after we fall in love?"

At its most intense, the notion of "romantic love" evokes feelings and associations so profound that they transcend time, culture, and even rational thought. Under the pressures of an intimate long-term relationship, however, the "mythical mate" who was once the source of romantic love often becomes one's worst enemy.

What does the therapist do then? How does this metamorphosis from mythical mate to worst enemy affect the therapeutic techniques created to help couples evolve through this crisis point?

Using as their springboard the model of infant developmental stages described by pioneering researcher Margaret Mahler, the authors find striking parallels between these stages and the powerful biological/psychological forces that shape the dynamics between two interacting adults. They show how these forces result in a bumpy and stressful maturation process as couples strive to develop the capacity to manage closeness and distance, as well as such complex emotions as disillusionment, loss, aggression, competition, regression, and ambivalence.

"Bader and Pearson's concepts and therapeutic approaches offer an exciting new frontier. This book is a major contribution to couples treatment that should be required reading for all clinicians and theoreticians."

—Clifford J. Sager, M.D.

IN QUEST OF THE MYTHICAL MATE uses rich and numerous case examples—with which all readers can identify—to vividly illustrate the clinical techniques created by the authors to work in synchrony with their developmental model. These techniques enable the therapist to help problem-ridden couples understand the stages they are currently experiencing in their relationship and attain new skills in progressing from their original state of "euphoria" to a deeper, more fulfilling intimacy.

Through in-depth explorations of each diagnostic category, the authors demonstrate the full therapeutic range of treatment from diagnosis and contract structuring to the creation of stage-specific interventions.

The final chapter reflects the work of the authors in training therapists in their developmental approach to couples therapy. Here the basic questions that are most frequently asked are discussed and answered.

IN QUEST OF THE MYTHICAL MATE presents a valuable and fertile developmental model for diagnosing and treating couples that is flexible enough to incorporate a wide variety of intervention strategies, yet purposeful enough to give a clear sense of direction to couples in distress. As such, this volume provides a powerful new therapeutic approach for all professionals who treat couples.
