New ITAA Membership Benefit

Free Access to the Journal of Human Behavior in the Social Environment

by Elana Leigh

These are exciting and fast-moving times in the ITAA, with many changes and new developments. In particular, I am proud to announce that as a result of our contract with Routledge/Taylor & Francis, publisher of the Transactional Analysis Journal, our members will have access to another one of their fine social science journals: the Journal of Human Behavior in the Social Environment (JHBSE). You will be receiving an email from Routledge soon (if you have not already) providing instructions about how to access this new journal.

The Journal of Human Behavior in the Social Environment focuses on helping practitioners grasp developing issues in human behavior by providing an outlet for empirically based articles about human behavior theory that facilitate practice goals. It addresses the complexities of human behavior and is an essential resource for the study of human behavior in the social environment.

Recent theme issues have included: "Transforming Higher Education Towards a Socially Just Pedagogy," "Exploring Ethical Issues in Different Practice Fields," "Contemporary Substance Use Research," "Social Work, Ethnicity, and Marriage," and "Parenting in the Twenty-First Century."

Among the recent articles are: "Perspectives on Good Mothering From Low-Income Mothers of Color With Maternal Depression," "Generative Fatherhood and Children's Future Civic Engagement," "The Role of Ethical Leadership in Employee Psychological Well-Being," "The Impact and Long-Term Effects of Childhood Trauma," "Early Brain Development for Social Work: Integrating Neuroscience with Piaget's Theory of Cognitive Development," "Qualitative Study on the Experiences of Married Couples," "Role of Parents in the Development of Social Competency Among Adolescents," "Community Policing in Racialized Communities: A Potential Role for Police Social Work," "Ethno-theatre: Exploring a Narrative Intervention for Trafficking Survivors," "Bullying and Suicide in High School Students," and "Adolescent Daughters' Perceptions of Their Fathers' Levels of Communication and Care: How These Variables Influence Female Adolescent Sexual Behaviors."

We trust that you will find a great deal of interest and relevance in the JHBSE, whether you work in psychotherapy, education, counseling, or organizations. We look forward to hearing what you think of the JHBSE and its usefulness to you and your work.

This new membership benefit comes after several years of exciting developments for the Transactional Analysis Journal. In 2013, the ITAA contracted with SAGE to publish the TAJ on our behalf, which marked the beginning of a new era for our journal. We became associated with a reputable international publisher, which broadened our readership and took transactional analysis into the wider world of the social sciences.

Then, in 2017, the ITAA moved from SAGE to Routledge/Taylor & Francis, another well-regarded publisher that offered us an even better contract. One important difference is that members will receive their hard copies as an annual volume, although the journal continues to be published online every quarter. This makes it extremely important that if you are eligible to receive a hard copy (full, supporting, and honorary members, not student or retired members) that you make sure to keep your membership current and paid up so that you will be on the list to receive your hard copy from Routledge sometime in the early fall.

Access to the JHBSE as a new ITAA membership benefit is an important indicator of how beneficial it has been to work with an external publishing house that has the capacity to offer much more to our membership.

We have a remarkable organization, but it only works well when each of us stays involved and informed. That is how we stay connected with each other and the association. We value your contributions and always your input and hope that you enjoy the benefits that you receive in return, the newest of which is access to the JHBSE. Happy reading!

Elana Leigh is currently ITAA Vice President of Research and Development. Following the Annual General Membership meeting in August, she will move into the position of president-elect. She can be reached at tthreech@bigpond.net.au .

Make Sure You Receive Your 2018 TAJ Hard Copy

As announced in previous issues of The Script, now that the Transactional Analysis Journal is being published by Routledge/Taylor & Francis, an issue is published online each quarter and then a hard-copy, bound volume of the four 2018 issues will be printed in September. To ensure that you receive your copy, it is extremely important that you check your online membership account at itaaworld.org to make sure your dues are paid up. Only members who are on the active membership list when the hard-copy volume is printed will receive it in the mail. If you need help checking your account, please contact Ken Fogleman at ken@itaa-net.org .

Membership Dues Payment Options

The options for paying your ITAA membership dues now include Pay Pal and wire transfer. Please contact Ken Fogleman at ken@itaa-net.org for details.

July TAJ Now Online

The July 2018 issue of the Transactional Analysis Journal was published online in late May. It is available on the Routledge/Taylor & Francis website at https://tandfonline.com/toc/rtaj20/current .

This journal, a nontheme issue, contains an interesting variety of articles. As Diana Deaconu wrote in her Letter From the Coeditor, "In an either implicit or explicit manner, the articles in this issue of the Transactional Analysis Journal approach issues around intersubjectivity and its intricacies." The articles include the following:

"A Contemporary Perspective on Transactional Analysis Group Therapy" by Anna Emanuela Tangolo and Anna Massi

"The Management of Erotic/Sexual Countertransference Reactions: An Exploration of the Difficulties and Opportunities Involved" by Ray Little

"Treatment Stages in Working With Children: An Approach Rooted in Transactional Analysis and Play Therapy" by Tatjana Gjurkovic and Keith Tudor

"Transactional Analysis and the Ludic Third (TALT): A Model of Functionally Fluent Reflective Play Practice" by Pete King and Susannah Temple

"Reflections on Physis, Happiness, and Human Motivation" by Giorgio Piccinino

There are also two book reviews:

Ghosts in the Consulting Room: Echoes of Trauma in Psychoanalysis by Adrienne Harris, Margery Kalb, and Susan Klebanoff (Eds.), reviewed by Marianna Ackerman

Trauma-Sensitive Mindfulness: Practices for Safe and Transformative Healing by David A. Treleaven, reviewed by Edward T. Novak

In closing her letter, Diana wrote, "It is my hope that the contributions in this Journal will generate new ideas and experiences that you will want to engage with both internally and also through dialogue with others in ways that leave space for those imperfections and hesitations that pertain to being human."

We hope you enjoy the July TAJ and would love to hear your comments!

Clarifying Open Access Option for Publishing in the TAJ

There appears to be some confusion about what it means on the TAJ Routledge/Taylor & Francis website where it says, "Publish open access in this journal." That is an option that authors may choose, but they are never under any obligation to do so. If they do not, no author is ever charged to publish in the Transactional Analysis Journal. And that has been true for the 48 years that the ITAA has been publishing the Journal. All costs for producing the TAJ have been borne by the ITAA.

The option to publish "open access" is offered by many journals published by well-established publishers (it was also on offer with SAGE when they published the TAJ). For a substantial fee, and if the author specifically requests it, the publisher will publish an article (assuming it is accepted after vigorous peer review) online in a chosen journal (it could be the TAJ or another journal) so that it can be read by anyone immediately on publication. This option is often of interest to researchers and academics who are backed by companies or institutions that will pay the high fee in order ensure that the information or research is released quickly and identified clearly with the author, company, and/or institution.

Although in the case of TAJ authors that option is likely to be of less interest, if an author does want to do it, the choice is available. For more information, please visit the Routledge/Taylor & Francis website at https://www.tandfonline.com/openaccess/openselect .

The Transactional Analysis Association of Japan Becomes an ITAA Partner Organization

by John Heath and Kuniharu Ogawa

John Heath

Kuniharu Ogawa

ITAA members will be aware that over the last few years we have been developing a policy of partnership with other membership organizations. The board of trustees is proud to announce that on 1 June a partnership agreement was signed between the ITAA and the Transactional Analysis Association of Japan (TAAJ). This is the third such partnership contract to be finalized, and the TAAJ now joins the South African TA Association (SATAA) and the Institute of Developmental TA (IDTA) as formal partner organizations of the ITAA.

Founded in 1987, TAAJ currently has 166 members from all over Japan (their office is in Tokyo). It began with a working group of individuals who wanted to learn genuine TA, and they chose Michiko Fukazawa, TSTA (P), as their first president because she had trained in the United States with people such as the Gouldings and Muriel James. The association welcomes professionals (clinical psychologists, nurses, social workers, organizational consultants, teachers, etc.) and laypersons alike, and now has several members who have qualified in the fields of psychotherapy, education, and organizations. TAAJ has provided Japanese translation of the IBOC training handbook on their website and promotes workshops with many international trainers. They also publish a newsletter every 4 months.

We are particularly excited to welcome the TAAJ into the partnership group as it is the first predominantly non-English-speaking organization to take this step with us. TAAJ is one of the major TA associations in Japan.

The ITAA is keen to develop ways of reaching out more effectively beyond the English-speaking world, and we are open to learning new ways of doing this in cooperation with our Japanese colleagues. We have given, as part of the agreement, the right for TAAJ to translate articles and announcements from The Script into Japanese for their members. This will keep TAAJ members informed of transactional analysis activities around the world and also give some insight into current thinking in TA. We are not in a position to offer the same rights for TAJ articles, but we have agreed that the titles of articles in each edition of the journal will be made available to TAAJ members in translation. This will help them become acquainted at least with what is available in the journal and may well increase the demand for fuller translations, which would then have to be negotiated separately with our publisher.

Colleagues who were able to attend the 2013 ITAA conference in Osaka will remember what a vibrant and enthusiastic TA community there is in Japan. Many people there are keen for closer involvement with the international TA community and working hard to become qualified members. For those who do not already have a fluent command of English, this is a difficult process. It is to be hoped that this new partnership will be an encouragement to them and will also help in some way to make the process easier.

As two of the negotiators in the partnership process and cosignatories to the agreement, it is our privilege to extend a warm welcome from the ITAA to all members of the TAAJ. Despite the divisions of geography and language, we are now officially friends and neighbors. Let's all see to it that we flourish together.

John Heath is a former ITAA president and the chair of the partnership committee; he can be reached at johnheath1105@gmail.com .

Kuniharu Ogawa has just completed his term as president of TAAJ, although he remains on the board as liaison manager; he can be reached at kuni@tatraining-tokyo.com .

Membership Survey Responses Due by 13 July

by Diane Salters

ITAA members were recently sent an email with the following message from President Diane Salters and a link to an online membership survey. We hope you have taken a few minutes to respond to the questions because your input will be helpful as the board considers the future of the association.

> "We trust that fresh input from our members will assist the board in identifying the changes needed to ensure that the ITAA becomes a sustainable organization that effectively serves us all."

As you will be aware from various reports in The Script and my report to the 2017 Annual General Membership meeting in Berlin, the ITAA currently faces many challenges related to low membership numbers and inadequate resources. Despite these, the association continues to provide services that our members rely on.

To make the ITAA sustainable, we on the Board of Trustees need to think creatively about how we do that. At present, we have been making sure that our finances are in good order and are seeking both to cut costs where we can and to increase income. Looking to the future, there will be deeper questions to answer about how the ITAA can best serve both our members and the worldwide TA community.

Learning what you value in the ITAA and what you would like to see done differently will help us to address some of these questions. We trust that fresh input from our members will assist the board in identifying the changes needed to ensure that the ITAA becomes a sustainable organization that effectively serves us all.

The membership questionnaire linked to below will inform and guide the board as well as provide a base of information for our special workshop at the ITAA-SAATA Conference in Kochi this August. The workshop is entitled "The Future of the ITAA and Its Role in the Worldwide TA Community." You are encouraged to attend if you can.

Meanwhile, please click on the link below and fill out the brief survey as soon as possible and no later than 13 July so that we can take your input into account as we prepare the Kochi workshop and as we consider options for the future of the ITAA.

Many thanks for your continuing contribution to the ITAA and the development of TA.

Diane Salters, ITAA President

Who Can Be a Student Member of the ITAA?

We on the ITAA Membership Committee are seeking to build a diverse community of transactional analysts from different countries, age groups, and levels of certification as well as a very important group: students/trainees. We currently have about 165 student members of the ITAA and want to encourage others to consider joining in that category. Anyone who has a training contract with a PTSTA or TSTA or who is studying at a university qualifies to become a student member. When they do, they will benefit from subsidized membership rates while still enjoying significant membership benefits, including online access to the Transactional Analysis Journal and The Script newsletter.

To join as student members, trainees in training with a PTSTA or TSTA need to be endorsed by their trainer, and university students need a letter signed by the authorities of their university. The endorsement form can be downloaded from https://goo.gl/Xawhuv. (Note: There is a different range for student members from TAlent countries.) We encourage members of the ITAA community to spread the news about student membership and to encourage trainees and students to take advantage of this wonderful membership offer!

This book brings together many of Cornell's articles on TA. Written over 20 years, the papers reflect his ongoing exploration of the interfaces among transactional analysis, the body-centered therapies, and contemporary psychoanalysis. Much of Cornell's writing exemplifies the potential and enrichment brought to our work in human relations through the use of one theoretical model to challenge and enhance another.

Perspectives in Transactional Analysis

by Muriel James
$15

These 20 papers cover a wide range of topics, including basic TA principles and techniques, fascinating accounts of Muriel's own life and her relationship with Eric Berne, the drama of cultural scripts, techniques for personality structural change, spirituality and the human spirit, and special applications of transactional analysis in clinical and organizational settings.

Therapeutic Journey: Practice and Life

by James R. Allen and Barbara A. Allen
$10

A collection of papers by two well-known transactional analysts, mental health practitioners, and educators, the topics covered include what to do after meeting the patient, types of treatment, trauma, social constructivism, working with children and adolescents, the biological underpinnings of TA and mental health interventions, family therapy, transference, redecision therapy, and social issues related to drug use, American Indian adolescents, the Oklahoma City bombing, war, and the Tulsa race riots of the 1920s.

Theories and Methods of an Integrative Transactional Analysis: A Volume of Selected Articles

by Richard Erskine
$15

These 29 articles demonstrate the growth and development of Erskine's ideas about psychotherapy, transactional analysis, supervision, and many related topics. Erskine reveals the evolution of his ideas from his early days in TA to his eventual integration of concepts from TA, gestalt therapy, and psychoanalytic theories such as object relations, self psychology, and the intersubjective approach.

Transactional Analysis in Organizations (First Volume of Selected Articles 1974-1994)

by Sari van Poelje and
Thomas Steinert, Editors
$10

These 23 articles cover a wide range of theories and applications of transactional analysis in organizational work. The authors are from around the world, and the articles represent as wide as possible a selection of the ideas and practices of organizational transactional analysts.

2019 Conference Will Celebrate Southeast Institute's 50th Anniversary

We are excited to announce that the 2019 Conference will be held 31 July to 3 August 2019, in Raleigh, North Carolina, USA. At that time, the Southeast Institute will be celebrating its 50th anniversary, celebrating 50 years of training in psychotherapy and social change. The ITAA and the USATAA will join them in cosponsoring the conference, the theme of which will be "Promoting Equality and OKness: Healing the Divisions in Our World."

The original name of the Southeast Institute was the Fellowship for Racial and Economic Equality (FREE), and the 2019 theme expresses the original goal of the institute as well as the goal of TA in promoting OKness. It is also poignantly timely given the current divisions in our world regarding race, gender, economics, politics, and religion. With the current wide use of the internet, communication is now instantaneous worldwide, making us a global community instead of a group of individual nations. We must learn how to live cooperatively and recognize the worth, value, and dignity of all people if we are to survive and prosper.

This conference will offer us an opportunity to explore new strategies for healing our divisions and moving forward as a worldwide community. We look forward to presentations from transactional analysts from around the world as well as exams and ITAA and USATAA business meetings. You are invited to submit proposals and to join us in celebrating the last 50 years as well as strategically planning for the next 50!

Vann Joines, PhD, Southeast Institute President, Conference Cochair, can be reached at vjoines@seinstitute.com .

Invitation to Bid on the 2020 TA World Conference

It is with great pleasure that the combined associations of the ITAA, EATA, and FTAA invite your association to bid on hosting the 2020 TA World Conference, which is to be held as usual in July-August. A tradition that began with the signing of a joint contract in 2007, the TA World Conference brings together the collaboration and cooperation of three of the worldwide transactional analysis associations. The world gathering is an opportunity to showcase your part of the world to TA enthusiasts from other parts of the world and to introduce your transactional analysts to a wide variety of keynote speakers, workshops presenters, authors, and key figures in the global TA community.

To date, there have been four highly successful world conferences: the first in Johannesburg, South Africa, in 2008; the second in Bilbao, Spain, in 2011; the third in San Francisco, USA, in 2014; and the fourth in Berlin, Germany, in 2017. The local associations in each area have been wonderful hosts to visitors from all over the world. The energy, enthusiasm, and willingness of the combined organizations to help raise the profile of TA in your region is a wonderful opportunity.

If you are interested in hosting the 2020 TA World Conference, please contact ITAA Conference Committee Chair Vladimir Goussakovski at v.gusakovski@gmail.com to obtain the form for presenting a bid. We look forward to receiving your expressions of interest!

Congratulations to Successful Examinees!

London, England: 3-4 May 2018

Congratulations to all 14 newly qualified MSc in TA Psychotherapy (from Metanoia/ Middlesex University) and EATA Certified Transactional Analyst psychotherapists. These exams had a unique feature. Gihan Salem is an Egyptian woman who trained at Metanoia and now works in Saudi Arabia. Due to exceptional circumstances, she was not able to attend her exam in the United Kingdom, so PTSC/EATA gave special permission for her to be examined "virtually." She took her CTA exam by a secure internet platform from Saudi Arabia with four examiners at Metanoia in London. A person was nominated to be her "hands" in the exam, to turn on the recording, hand out transcripts, and so on. The exam was observed by an EATA/COC representative, Sylvie Rossi, to ensure that it met the international exam standards. It was a successful experience all round.

Metanoia wishes to thank all examiners: Farah Cottier, Rachel Burniston, Sam Carbon, Tess Elliott, Joan Moore, Augusta Wolff, Gemma Mason, Nikki Millard, Jane Todd, Kate Foster, Suna Guven, Silvia Baba Neal, Emma Haynes, Gun Isaksson Hurst, Barbara Traynor, Sheila Halliday, Keith Chinnock, Rob Hill, Wilf Hashimi, and Christine Warwicker.

The exam supervisors were Sue Eusden and Carole Shadbolt.

Also thanks to EATA representative Sylvie Rossi, who attended the exams for the whole two days from COC.
